

Presentation Notes for the New Application

Flyer Information

The New Application – To Disclose or Not To Disclose?

January 2018 will launch the use of the newly redesigned mortgage loan application. Styled for both online and interview environments, the new application will collect relevant information related to credit underwriting and collateral assessment.

However, some hurdles lay ahead for originators. Today's application for the extension of credit only contains 5 parts of TRID. What will the new application bring and how will it affect lenders, borrower and interested parties to the transaction?

Presented by Power Training

Flyer must be approved by Power Training before release to the public.

Speaker

Juliana Brock, CEO for Power Training brings 34 years of experience in the Mortgage Industry during which time she created work practices that increased production and minimized costly mistakes.

An advisor to the FBI, White Collar Police departments and high profile criminal attorneys, Juliana is regarded as one of the top Mortgage Subject Matter Experts in the country.

Ms. Brock is personally considered the education resource and her company, Power Training is considered the industry's "go to" source for making sure your information is researched and right.

Her company, Power Training is highly rated and an approved provider for the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registration and the Texas Real Estate Commission.

